* Important * adding an image needs to be easier and displayed in-line

When posting content there's got to be a better way to insert a screen shot. Saving to a file and then uploading is very primitive plus the content isn't display in-line as one would expect these days. I don't want to "view a document" I want to see the image in-line.

Confluence does a really good job with this. Can we emulate this behavior?
