
Question

Mads Lien · Jul 15, 2016

A fetchall() method for the Python client class

It would be convenient to be able to fetch the whole query result in one operation instead of looping through every row. A fetchall() method or something similar would provide this functionality I guess. Is there a reason why this is not implemented?

#JDBC #ODBC #Python #Caché

Source URL: <https://community.intersystems.com/post/fetchall-method-python-client-class>