Licensing: Ubuntu and SUSE with 2017.1 and later

Starting with 2017.1, InterSystems is adding Ubuntu (64-bit) as a third linux server platform. Prior to 2017.1 Ubuntu was already available as a development platform and customers could use InterSystems distributions build for SUSE to run on Ubuntu. As a result there are a few license key implications for 64-bit linux versions starting with Caché and Ensemble 2017.1:

- a) Customers using RedHat will observe no changes
- b) Customers using InterSystems products⁽¹⁾ for SUSE on SUSE will need new license keys (no charge)
- c) Customers using InterSystems products⁽¹⁾ for SUSE on Ubuntu will need new license keys (free of charge for 12 month⁽²⁾)

⁽¹⁾ Caché, Ensemble, HealthShare, and TrakCare

⁽²⁾ Starting with the Release of 2017.1
