Question

Russell Knight · Aug 31, 2017

Run cache program from command line.

Greetings,

Is it possible to save Cache code into a file and then run it via command line?

IE: csession [ini] -U [ini] /path/cacheCodeFile.?

What I need to do is run a Cache script from the Linux command line. The script will navigate data to produce a file and then it will exit back to the command line.

Thanks in advance for everyone's time.

#Beginner #Caché #Deployment

Source URL:https://community.intersystems.com/post/run-cache-program-command-line