How to add a Translation in Spanish for an Article on DC

Hi Community!

You've possibly noticed ES switcher in articles.

If not - we recently introduced the option to switch to the Spanish version of the article.

The screenshot shows the article "Python Gateway Part I: Introduction" with the "Translation" tab selected. A red arrow points to a language switcher labeled "Es" in the top right corner. Below the article title, there are tabs for "View", "Edit", "Feature Content", "Translation", and "Devel". The article content includes a list of topics: "Languages, Machine Learning, Python, InterSystems IRIS" and a list of bullet points describing the project's goals.

Everyone is able now to add a translation to an article on the Developer Community.

If you want to add a translation request author's permission on the articles page in a Translation tab.

The screenshot shows the "Translation" tab selected for the article "Some tips for beginners about using Terminal scripts". Below the article title, there are tabs for "View", "Edit", "Feature Content", "Translation", and "Devel". The article content includes the word "Español" and a button labeled "I want to translate the article".

If the author grants the request you are able to publish the translation with your name on the Spanish Community site. Spanish Community is operating in a "beta version" mode.

Published on InterSystems Developer Community (<https://community.intersystems.com>)

if you are an author you receive the notification by email about the request from a particular DC member. It's your decision whether to grant it.

If you want to translate your own article request the permission from yourself and grant it)

The same thing works for Spanish Community site - you can translate the Spanish article in English. Be sure, you know both languages well!)

Looking forward to see your articles in Spanish and stay tuned for the official launch in May 2019
