
Question

Eduard Lebedyuk · Mar 6, 2020

Force terminal to the foreground after current command finishes running

Simple problem:

1. I leave a long-running command in terminal
2. Switch to another task(s)
3. Remember that I need to check on my command after a few hours

Is there any way to force terminal to the foreground after current command ends?

This is Windows with cterm/iristerm although Putty/Kitty solution would also be nice.

#Microsoft Windows #Red Hat Enterprise Linux \(RHEL\) #Terminal #InterSystems IRIS

Source

URL: <https://community.intersystems.com/post/force-terminal-foreground-after-current-command-finishes-running>