Question
Ronnie Fish · Apr 28, 2020

Git plugin for Cache Studio

Has anyone recently deployed the cache-git-studio plugin from Github repo?

In particular, I see that this plugin is installed at the namespace level, so it appears for each user have their commits in their own name, they must all be running a locally installed cache server when doing their dev work. I suspect that is the preferred way.

In my organization they are currently just accessing a remote cache server from Studio. In that scenario, it looks like it would be one installation of git for the whole team. and thus only one shared git user.

#Caché

Source URL:https://community.intersystems.com/post/git-plugin-cache-studio