zn "   "   sync: ,
                                                In coding, the operation of Zn "namespace" across the namespace will lead to a lot of errors in the queue Sync: process number. I don't know if this is a problem of switching the namespace operation or using it? Is there a better way to apply this kind of cross namespace?
