Back to school on FHIR with DC FR!

Hello Community!

We're excited to announce the launch of the new topic on the French Developer Community! This back-to-school season we start talking about FHIR! What does it mean for our members?

In the French Developer Community, we try to prepare articles with a priority for a chosen topic. This time, we are preparing not just a series of articles but a whole deal more for our members to learn about FHIR! We plan to include articles, videos, meetup announcements and reports from these meetups related to the current topic. If you don't speak French but still wish to learn more about FHIR - subscribe to the original announcement. I will be adding the links to the posts that are part of these activities in the comments and most of them have (or will have) translations in English!

We hope this will help you get the most out of the experience. And of course, do not hesitate to join our efforts and share your knowledge on the subject! The most interesting articles will be translated into French!

Stay tuned!
